Career Highlights:

After graduating from the University of South Carolina in 2006, I came to work for my father in our small CPA practice with offices in Lexington and Columbia, SC. By November 2008 I had completed the requirements for my CPA and was licensed in SC. I balanced time in our main areas – individual and corporate tax, governmental auditing, and wealth advisory services. In 2014, I was named a partner of our firm, which had consolidated our staff of 11 to a single office in Lexington, SC. In addition to serving in various functions of our practice areas, I now spend a considerable amount of time with firm administration.

What are you doing to make a difference in the profession, your community, the world?

I spend a considerable amount of time serving on local community board, as there always seems to be a need for a CPA to serve. I have served as Treasurer for the Lexington Beautification Foundation and the West Columbia Police Officers foundation for the last 10 years. More recently, I have started working with Ex Gratia Brewing as their treasurer. The organization aims to use funds generated from a brewery to aid in the fundraising of other non profits who struggle to generate capital to perform their missions. We are excited about the project and the local interest has certainly supported the concept.

Favorite books/websites/speakers: For pleasure reading, I am always awaiting the next Gresham or Patterson book. When it comes to professional, thought provoking reading I enjoy anything by Josh Linkner, Tim Sanders, or Dan Burrus

What do you see yourself doing professionally in 10 years?

Professionally, I see myself focusing more on holistic advisory services for high net
