What are you doing to make a difference in the profession, your community, the world?

“When the big things feel out of control...focus on what you love right under your nose. – Charlie Mackesy, The Boy, the Mole, the Fox, and the Horse

2020 has been a year – one that has felt out of control; yet at every twist and turn, there have been opportunities to love, to be kind, and to care for others. In focusing on the opportunities in front of me this year – from being my children’s teacher to helping small business owners and families navigate the financial effects of the pandemic, my hope is that I have had a meaningful impact.

Favorite books/websites/podcasts/speakers:

The Boy, the Mole, the Fox, and the Horse by Charlie Mackesy has had a meaningful impact on me and deepened my connections with others this year when distance has never felt so far. Its message and illustrations embody vulnerability, connection, kindness, and hope. It’s one of those books that you can pick up, randomly flip to a page, and find the exact words you need (or that someone you love may need) in that moment.
